Nixon, Clement Will Address SJS Students

Politically-minded Spartans will have the opportunity to observe the hectic presidential campaign at first hand Wednesday. At 3:15 o'clock on that afternoon Vice President Richard M. Nixon will address students and faculty from a platform in the Inner Quad.

Nixon will be followed Friday by Democratic Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee. Both speeches will be limited to 20 minutes.

Students wishing to hear either speaker will be excused from classes 10 minutes early, and laboratory instructors may schedule a "break" to coincide with the appearances of the representatives of the Republican and Democratic parties.

Arrangements for the two speeches were made by President John T. Wahlquist after he had received a telephone call from State Senator Jack Thompson asking if Vice President Nixon might speak on the campus during his visit to San Jose. Before granting the request, Dr. Wahlquist contacted Roger Kent, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, offering an opportunity to the Democrats to send a speaker.

Although Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic Presidential candidate, will be in the Bay Area next week, it will be impossible for him to include the college in his itinerary, Kent told Dr. Wahlquist. Instead, Gov. Clement will be sent to represent the Democrats. Kent expressed his approval of the plan to give the students and faculty members an opportunity to hear speakers representing both parties.

Commenting on the forthcoming appearances of the Vice President and Gov. Clement on the campus, Dr. Wahlquist said each occasion will be a significant one in that it will provide an opportunity for students to hear a young man who has risen to a high position in the councils of his party.

"Students who are eager to hear and see a leading campaigner representing each major party will be able to do so before Nov. 6 without leaving the campus," he said.

Six Sorority Houses Greet Fall Rushes Today

Sorority rushes will attend the second of four parties today at the Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Mu, Sigma Kappa, Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Omicron Pi, and Alpha Phi houses. Second parties were held yesterday at Chi Omega, Delta Gamma, Delta Zeta, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Kappa Delta.

The third round of parties is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. Saturday the rushes will attend parties at Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Mu, and Sigma Kappa. Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Phi, Chi Omega, Delta Gamma, and Delta Zeta will host the girls on Sunday.

The fourth party will be held at all houses Monday evening beginning at 7 p.m.

The girls will state their pre-

Skies May Clear

United Press weather observers predict probable clearing up of rainy conditions today, but don't count on it.

SJS students dressing by yesterday's forecast more than likely got wet before the day was over. To be on the safe side, foul weather clothing, as well as a pair of Bermuda shorts, should be in a handy location.

Today's high is expected to range from 70-80.

Home Ec Display Uses Rick-Rack

"Trim With Rick-Rack" is the theme for the display in the upstairs hall of the Home Economics Department. It was arranged by Dolores Peal, senior home economics major.

Miss Peal has incorporated fall colors to illustrate decorative effects which can be created with different types of rick-rack. The trimming is shown on outline representations of a blouse and skirt that appear to be suspended in mid-air.

Student Council Votes To Support Proposition Three

The San Jose State Student Council yesterday went on record as being in favor of Proposition 3 and pledged their wholehearted support in backing the measure.

Led by President Ray Freeman, the Council ratified the constitution of the California State College Student President's Association which included a statement supporting the proposition.

The measure, which will come before the electorate in the November 5 elections, concerns state aid to building programs.

"San Jose State stands to gain approximately $29,000,000 if the proposition passes," Freeman told the Council, "making it quite important to each of us. Two tangible items—a new student union and a new health office—may hinge on the passage of the proposition," he continued. "They are not on the priority list, but chances for their construction are good."

Bob Hosfeldt was appointed chairman of a student committee to work on the campaign for the measure.

In other action yesterday, the Council approved a $132,300.40 budget for the 1956-57 school year.

Largest items on the budget include $38,935 for men's athletics and $14,000 for publication of the SPARTAN DAILY.

Gary Clarke, Chief Justice of the Student Court, reported to the Council that ASB elections will be held on Oct. 25-26 and that the deadline for applications will be Oct. 10. To date, only three students have submitted applications for office, Clarke said.

It was also announced that the Council will be divided into four sections to interview applicants for committee chairmen posts. It is believed that such a division will speed the time formerly taken on interviews.

Queen Entries Must Be Made Before Oct. 15

Applications of candidates for Centennial Homecoming Queen must be turned into Box 'H' in the Student Union no later than 4:30 p.m., Oct. 15, according to Jan Heter, queen committee chairman.

Candidates for Queen may be sponsored by any campus organization. However, they must have completed one semester at SJS or any other accredited college, and be on clear standing.

Each queen candidate must submit six 8 by 12 inch glossy portraits to be used by the Homecoming Committee for publicity purposes. Candidates also must indicate the photography studio where the portraits were taken.

Pictures of all entrants will be posted on campus for the election of the top ten girls by the student body. The top ten contestants will participate in the annual fashion show on Oct. 25 at 8 p.m. in Morris Dailey Auditorium.

The top five chosen at the fashion show will be guests of honor at the Coronation Ball on Oct. 26. Her Majesty will be selected from the five semi-finalists. The four remaining girls will be the queen's maids-of-honor.

This year's queen, besides reigning over the Homecoming activities, will take part in many Centennial events. She will make radio and television appearances as part of the Centennial Functions.

Orators To Offer Rare Treat

We have a rare treat in store for us next week. Through the efforts of President John T. Wahlquist, we will have the opportunity to watch two well-known gentlemen who undoubtedly are rising stars in their respective political parties.

On Wednesday Vice President Richard M. Nixon will make an appearance on campus, and he will be followed two days later by Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement.

One thing these two famed political orators have in common, and one thing only, is their ability to deliver a biting, blistering speech. Both are often accused of punching below the belt, but in most cases it depends on which side of the fence, or belt, the spectator stands.

Clement won wide applause from his fellow Democrats and national renown when he delivered the keynote address at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in August. In that speech, Clement followed the "saw-dust trail" delivering the type of oratory once made famous by the late Senator Alben W. Barkley.

Whether agreeing with the Governor or not, you must admit it is great fun listening to him. And if you agree with what he says, as about an estimated half of the SJS student body does, why, the pleasure is only heightened.

Nixon also has a reputation for his speech-making abilities. His claim to oratorical fame lies not so much in how he delivers, but what he delivers. His opponents claim he is an expert in the field of innuendos.

The other half of the Spartan student body would certainly denounce this accusation as one inspired by those who are afraid of the truth.

And so it goes.

One thing is sure, though. Partisans will come away from the two addresses convinced their man was the most honest, most truthful and most straight-forward.

'Our Young Voters Don't Care': Look; Are SJS Students 'Profound Thinkers?'

By JIM CYPHER

Appearing in the Oct. 2 issue of Look magazine is an illuminating article entitled "TRAGIC FACT: Our Young Voters Don't Care." After reading this article, one can't help but wonder if college students are really what they are cracked up to be.

Are we really profound thinkers? Do we actually possess sound opinions concerning the issues and problems confronting our nation of today? Are we truthfully acquainted with the political platforms of the two major parties? Do we care who is in the driver's seat? Apparently not, according to Eugene Gilbert, president of Gilbert Youth Research, and author of the article.

No one can argue the validity of the premise that a good voter is one who is enlightened. All right, let's all become enlightened citizens. We'll do extensive research and reading; we'll become familiar with party platforms; we'll recognize the important problems and issues of the day. Alas, the sad fact staring us in the face is that only two out of every five of us will take these steps toward enlightenment. The remainder will shrug their shoulders and utter "I don't-care-isms" and other such phrases as, "My lonely vote won't make that much difference" or "How can I vote when I don't know the issues and why one party and candidate are better than another?"

How can one account for this prevalent mode of thinking? The author feels that the answer lies both in the home and in the colleges themselves. "It is the responsibility of the family to prepare the student for education, that is, to inculcate an attitude toward knowledge, experience and thinking that can be creatively directed later on in college."

A popular topic for high school and college debating groups has been "Should 18-year-olds be given the right to vote?" Let us ask ourselves, will extending suffrage to this younger element add a rung to the ladder of our democratic institution? If we students of voting age cannot successfully fulfill our obligations to preserving the democratic tenets of our country, we certainly cannot expect it of this added faction.

Some of us at SJS are faced with being ineligible to participate in the presidential elections this November because of not being able to meet the residence requirements for registration and voting. There recently has been a proposal that would enable persons in this category to vote for his presidential choice, but not for state or local candidates. Unfortunately, nothing of a positive nature has evolved from this proposal.

Some of us perhaps belong to political organizations which boast memberships of younger people, e.g. the Young Republicans or the Young Democrats. These organizations are serving a very important purpose in providing some of the facts and the knowledge necessary for us to become enlightened citizens and intelligent voters.

Let us no longer ignore one of the fundamental rights granted to us, the right to cast a vote for the candidates of the party that we alone choose.

DO NOT DISTURB

HOLLAND, Mich. — (UP) — Ottawa County deputies and Coast Guardsmen leaped into action at reports of a rowboat adrift in Lake Macatawa shortly after 5 a.m. They boarded a cruiser and raced to the scene. "Man, what's the trouble?" came a voice from the bottom of the boat. "Can't a guy get a decent night's sleep?"

Marching Band Assumes Look of Ivy Leaguers

Along with everything else this year, the San Jose State marching band has taken on that new Ivy League look. The 88-member band sported a snappy new step at the first football game of the season Sept. 22.

This new look is due partly to a new director, Roger Muzzy. Muzzy formerly on the band staff at the U. of Iowa, joined the music faculty this fall as marching band director.

Muzzy feels that a band owes first allegiance to its school. "Its most important function is to promote the school song and school hymn until all spectators will stand."

"This year the band will use a precision style of marching in which music is secondary," Mr. Muzzy said. "However, music is very important," he added. "The music will usually be familiar and will vary from swing and jazz to the classics to maintain proper interest."

"The precision style of marching means breakdown into company, fronts and groups of two, four and eight. The group plans large animated formations plus tricky routines."

Drum major again will be Jerry Stasko, senior music major. Taking over band management are two music majors, Val Phillips and Phil Kates.

The marching band plans to appear at the Stanford and College of Pacific football games as well as all remaining home games. The group can be seen practicing every afternoon at 12:30 o'clock on the women's new play field.

Most will be initiated into the curious ways of baseball. But for those unfamiliar with the working of the language, we present this lexicon of "Basic TV Baseball." It should provide a better understanding, we hope, of just what the announcer is gassing about.

Hazing Has Its Ups For College Clan

NEW YORK (UP) — The president of Claremont Men's College Sophomore Class had a two-day whirl in New York as part of a hazing by the Freshmen Class.

The hazing ended today with the return of Tedd Determan, 19, by air to the Southern California college's classrooms.

Determan had expected to be taken on the traditional hazing trip to Baldy Mountain when the Freshmen invaded his room Sunday night.

Instead, they put him on an airplane for New York, with $4 and a baggage check for a suitcase full of his roommate's clothes.

He arrived in New York Monday morning, was bussed by an actress, visited his brother in Princeton, N. J., spent a night on the town with a girl whose name he found in his roommate's jacket pocket and got more publicity for Claremont than its football team.

"Believe me, I couldn't be more satisfied," he said.

He said the fare for his return had been raised in California. He said he was told the "school authorities wanted me back in class."

The night on the town was a memorable experience he said at the airport as he left. He had spent it in a tour of Greenwich Village with a friend of Bert Pointner, his roommate.

But she still was the girl friend of Pointner's, he said.

"She's an older woman," he said. "Why she must be about 24."

For the record, he said he went to bed at 3 a.m. but admitted: "It was later than that . . . things are going to be different when I get back to Claremont."

Stanford may have some of the biggest football players on the West Coast this year but it also seems they have some of the smallest band performers.

The Stanford Daily reports the university has had to send many band uniforms back to the alteration department of a leading clothing store.

It seems when 120 new uniforms were purchased this year they should have come from the boys' department and not the men's.

The U. of Oregon has come up with a rather unusual idea in the way student body cards this year.

The card sells for a dollar and allows the wives free admission to several college functions.

The course was designed primarily for research scientists who are able to use computer programming in their field, business executives whose firms are interested in applying computers to their problems, and persons interested in continuing their studies to enter the field of computer programming.

Spartans in Water Polo Opener Today

The Spartan water polo team will face its first test of the season when it engages Santa Clara University in the latter's pool at 4 p.m. today.

Out of action for the season opener will be giant Dale Anderson, the highly touted soph. He was injured while working out Sunday and is not expected to return to the water until next week.

Coach Charley Walker hopes Anderson will be ready for next week's tilt with California, reportedly the strongest team on the West Coast. The Bears knocked over last year's Northern California champs, the Olympic Club, 6-4, last week.

Spartan hopes for the best season in history took a turn for the better when last year's co-captain, Art Lambert, registered late and reported for practice Monday.

Lambert was slated to enter the service, but a change of plans brought about his return.

Santa Clara is not expected to offer the locals a stern test today, but it will give the Spartans a chance to see what kind of shape they are in.

The first home game may be Friday. Coach Walker requested a game with San Francisco State, but word of their acceptance has not yet come through. The game is tentatively scheduled for the Spartan pool at 4 p.m.

Junior Varsity Ties Freshmen

The San Jose State Junior Varsity football squad, smarting from a 13-0 loss at the hands of the San Francisco Naval Shipyard grid-ders, found the going just as rough as they battled the Spartans frosh team to 6-6 scrimmage game tie Tuesday.

Coach Bill Walsh, desperately in need of players for his club, issued an invitation to anyone interested in playing football to turn out for the team.

Standouts for the JV's in the scrimmage were two former freshman stars, tackle Bob Rose who anchored a sturdy line and Al Conley, who ran well from his halfback spot.

Walsh singled out tackle Dick Olive and fullback Dick Fredericks for outstanding play.

Next game for the JV's will be an October 12 meeting with the Treasure Island Navy footballers. The game will be played there at 2 p.m.

Maglie Wins for Bums; Newk, Larsen Go Today

BROOKLYN (UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, behind the stout-hearted pitching of old Sal Maglie and the booming bat of Gil Hodges, defeated the New York Yankees, 6-3, in the first game of the World Series yesterday.

A crowd of 34,479, including President Eisenhower, jammed little Ebbets Field and watched the Dodgers rack up four Yankee pitchers for nine hits, including a three-run homer by Hodges, which turned out to be the deciding blow.

It came in the third inning and gave Maglie, the 39-year-old curveball specialist whose clutch pitching led the Dodgers to the pennant, his first series triumph.

The blow came off Whitey Ford, the Yankees' ace southpaw, who was charged with the defeat.

Big Don Newcombe, a 27-game winner for the Dodgers, and Don Larsen, who won 11 for the Yankees, were named to pitch the second game of the series at Ebbets Field today.

Yesterday's game was a battle of home runs, each team getting a pair. But Hodges' came with two teammates on base and that turned out to be the difference.

Maglie, a little arm weary from the pitching he did in Brooklyn's pennant drive, managed to throttle the Yankees, but it wasn't easy, as he yielded nine hits, including homers by Mickey Mantle and Billy Martin.

But when the going got rough he bore down, and with brilliant support in the field, staggered through. He struck out 10 while walking three.

Mantle's home run came in the first inning after Enos Slaughter beat out a ground ball for a single and put the Yankees in front, 2-0.

But after the Dodgers went out in order in the first, Jackie Robinson got the Dodgers' batting drive going with a home run into the left field seats. Before the inning was over, the Dodgers had tied the score for Hodges followed with a single and scored on Carl Furillo's double.

Rifle Team Slates Practice

The San Jose State rifle team which finished 15th nationally and third in the tough Northern California Intercollegiate Rifle Conference last year, begins practice next week, according to team captain John Dunn.

Sgt. Lawrence Cunningham, of the Army ROTC will coach this year's team, Dunn said the team faces a great rebuilding job due to loss of last year's aces, Bill Rebenstein, a 1953 All-American selection, and Arlan Amaral.

Any student is eligible to try-out for the team and those interested are requested to contact Sgt. Cunningham in B 64.

Holdovers from last year include Dunn, last year's leading scorer, Don Bickford, Ken Storms, Al Truslaw, Rudy Cordova and Jerry Williams.

Television Brings World Series Into Student Union

By DICK O'CONNOR

The World Series came to San Jose State yesterday. At least 17 inches of it did. That was about all the television set in the Student Union could show.

An appreciative, sometimes fanatical crowd, enjoyed the Brooklyn Dodgers 6-3 victory over the perennial World Champion New York Yankees.

The Union was packed. There was standing room at the Alpha Phi Omega book exchange end of the building and the happenings were relayed to those in the back row. By the time it was word-of-mouthed back it wasn't news anymore.

Someone suggested standing on the bridge players table but the card players didn't go for that.

Duke Snider came up in a crucial situation but had to compete with a well proportioned coed who came to watch the series. The coed in white sweater drew more viewers than Snider in a baggy Dodger uniform.

Mickey Mantle drew a respectful silence each time he came to bat. The Dodger pitchers didn't cooperate with the home run addicts after the first inning as they walked Mantle twice.

Yankee hopes flickered in the ninth inning as Enos Slaughter, older than San Jose Normal School, knocked his third hit. Mantle came to bat and things looked good for the Bronx Bombers.

The Commerce Comet hit a hard grounder to the infield and with the front row Dodger fan screaming, "Get two, Get two," the Dodgers did just that.

Aeronautics Staff Gains Three Men from Field

Aeronautics students are supplementing "book learning" with instruction by three major airlines representatives who are teaching classes this year.

Signed on a part time basis to instruct aeronautics students during the evening are employees from Pan American World Airways, Southwest Airways and United Air Lines.

Darrol G. Davison, director of engineering and maintenance for Southwest, instructs a class in aircraft materials and processes. Fred A. Hanson, UAL engineer, is teaching aircraft drafting. And Maurice L. Wright, PAA ground school instructor, is in charge of an aircraft structure class.

"We are highly pleased to have these men with us," Thomas Leonard, Aeronautics department head, said. "They provide a direct contact between the students and the various airlines, thereby bringing reality to text book information."

Davison received his BS in aeronautical engineering at California Polytechnic College in 1948. His vocational training was interrupted during World War II when he attended a cadet training program at California Institute of Technology at Pasadena, an aviation machinist mates' school and an operation radar school at Norman, Oklahoma.

He spent 10 months as a mechanic and flight engineer with an air-sea rescue squad, four months in charge of aircraft maintenance and 10 months as aviation engineer and draftsman at Norfolk, Va., while in the service.

He now is in charge of three supervisors and 125 maintenance and overhaul personnel at Southwest Airways. Davison is a Redwood City resident.

Hanson is a Purdue graduate. He received his BS in aeronautical engineering in Feb., 1950. From Mar. 18, 1941, to Nov. 21, 1945, he served with the Army Air Force as an aircraft mechanic and flight engineer.

Later, he was a draftsman for Convair Aircraft Corp. in Fort Worth, Texas, and for Douglas Aircraft Corp. in Long Beach. Since September, 1952, he has worked at UAL as an engineer. Originally from Duluth, Minn., Hanson also lives in Redwood City with his wife and two children.

Oregon State College graduate Wright in 1941 with a BS in industrial administration. During World War II he was an instructor and supervisor at naval air training centers in Norman, Okla., and Memphis. As a Chief Petty Officer, he supervised maintenance work on TBM aircraft.

Wright was a service engineer for a B-50 project with the Boeing Airplane Co. in Seattle for 16 months and has been employed by PAA since 1946 except for his time with Boeing. He now lives in Palo Alto.

There are approximately 145 regular aeronautics students, Leonard reported. About 85 percent of these attend night classes instructed by the new part time instructors.

Students Enjoy Barbecue

SIGNING THE GUEST-BOOK at the annual Crummeys Barbecue is Marid Raed, Marilyn Hilstron and Tom Taylor are greeting her. The event was held at the John D. Crummeys estate, 1855 Park Ave., and was sponsored by the Student Y.

Swimming, Dancing Feature Student Y Event

Swimming, tennis, shuffleboard, and folk-dancing were the highlights of the evening at the annual Crummeys Barbecue last night at the John D. Crummeys estate. More than 85 students attended the event sponsored by the Student Y.

A treasure hunt was conducted to introduce students to the activities of the Student Y. Students were divided into nine groups to hunt for paper tags revealing names of the activities. Each group then did a pantomime of the particular activity they discovered.

Dr. and Mrs. Carl Duncan led the students in folk-dancing. Dr. Duncan, head of the Science Department, and Mrs. Duncan are advisers for Spartan Spinners, SJS folk-dancing group.

A menu of barbecued hamburgers, salad, beans, and pie was served to the group. Marilyn Shaffer was in charge of the program committee, and Jeannie Oakleaf was in charge of the food committee.

Welvin Stroud, president of the Student Y, was on hand to welcome those attending. Students signed a guest book and were given name-tags to become better acquainted.

Reference Data Are Now Available

Alphabetized program cards are now available for reference in the Activities Office, Room 114.

Except for late registrants, each student's program is listed in the office, along with his address, phone number, class and major.

Presley Fans In Redding Get I.Q. Test

REDDING, CALIF. — (UP)—Some of the fans of Elvis (The Pelvis) Presley in these parts are claiming Paul Farrelle, manager of Radio Station KSDA, ain't nothin' but a hound dog.

Farrelle, who said he was pressing for a showdown on the Presley situation, said he has set out to "test the general trend of intelligence" of fans of the swivel-hipped songster. First, Farrelle put a wax curtain around all Presley offerings, banning them from the air.

This brought a flood of telephone calls of complaint, some letters, and threats. To go to the other extreme, Farrelle went into a three-hour stint of Elvis Presley records—just two of them. He alternately played "You Ain't Nothin' But A Hound Dog" and "Don't Be Cruel to Me," varying the speed of the turntable and throwing in occasional echo effects for good measure.

Again Presley fans drew their telephones, this time to complain to police that all was not as it should be at KSDA. And Farrelle scheduled another exclusively Presley session last night.

Members of the quartet are Jim Paris, first tenor; Larry Rodriguez, second tenor; Bob Lillquist, baritone; and Nick Bell, bass.

Ahern, who will also direct the show, has been winner of the
